GREEK KING SAYS STRUGGLE CONTINUES

Believe Germans Will Seek To Capture Port Of Athens To Prevent Evacuation

(International News Service)

ATHENS, April 24—British and Greek troops made a final desperate stand against onrushing Nazi panzer legions north of Athens today, while King George II of Greece and his government established themselves on the British-occupied island of Crete.

German legions in mounting numbers hammered at the Anglo-Greek defenses north of the Greek capital following the collapse of Greek resistance in the northwest, where the Greek armies of the Epirus and Macedonia capitulated unconditionally to the Axis powers.

To Continue Struggle

Before departing for Crete, King George announced the government was leaving Athens to continue the struggle against Germany and Italy. (Editor's Note: A Reuters (British) report, dated London, said that German troops rushing south of Lamia had advanced within 56 miles of Athens last night. The previous day International News Service dispatches from Berlin said it

PA NEW OBSERVES

According to the weatherman indications are for a frost in this district tonight.

Probably the first of the season is a Japanese cherry tree in full bloom at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Richards, Carson street.

Work is progressing steadily on the new bridge being erected on the Harlansburg road, four or five miles from the city. When completed the highway will be routed so as to cross the bridge and will eliminate a narrow curve that has long been a traffic hazard on this highway.

Fishermen report that conditions in the streams of the district are most unusual this season. Not in many years has the trout fishing season been ushered in with such a low stage of the water, and since opening there has been no rain of consequence to cause them to rise. Fishing has not been as good as usual due to this condition.

North Jefferson street, which was given a top surfacing last fall is being given attention of the repair crews at the present time. Some of the surfacing work did not remain as expected.

Another new type of bus is being tried out on the Jefferson street line, it is noted. Three different types of bus have been used in the past month, apparently with a view of determining the kind to be placed in service here when the transition is made from trolley cars to buses later in the year.

NEW YORK, April 24—One bandit committed suicide, another was captured, and a policeman was wounded today in a gun battle that followed a holdup in the New York Athletic club building.

Traffic Policeman George Schuck was taken to Roosevelt hospital in a critical condition from wounds suffered when he confronted the bandits as they ran out the building entrance.

One bandit immediately opened fire. Though wounded, Schuck managed to trap one of the men, while the second leaped into a stolen getaway car parked in front of the building.

Before he could get away, other officers began closing in. The man in the car took one look at his pursuers, raised his pistol to his head and pulled the trigger. He died instantly.

The holdup took place on the 19th floor of the skyscraper club building, in the club cashier's office. It was not learned immediately what amount of money was taken.

One report was that the bandit gang included another man and a woman and that the woman fled from the getaway car just before the bandit committed suicide.

Lindbergh Assails Efforts To Have U. S. Send Troops Abroad

(International News Service)
NEW YORK, April 24—Great Britain is losing the war and there is nothing the United States can do to stem the tide of German victory, Col. Charles A. Lindbergh maintained today.

Britain's last desperate hope, Lindbergh told 25,000 persons gathered at a mass meeting of the America First committee, is to persuade the U. S. to send another American expeditionary force to Europe.

Propaganda Efforts

"France has now been defeated, and despite the propaganda and confusion of recent months, it is now obvious that England is losing the war," he said. "I believe this is realized by even the British government."

"Dispatch of an expeditionary force to Europe, Lindbergh contended, would only put the United

As Nazi Drive Nears End

Latest moves as Anglo-Greek resistance collapsed in Greece are shown on this Central Press map of the war front. While surrender of the Greek armies in Macedonia and Epirus (A) was reported, Berlin claimed that a British rear guard force had been "annihilated" at the historic Thermopylae pass (B). Other reports stated that the Germans have captured the Greek island of Samothrace (C) near the Dardanelles and have attacked the British-held island of Lemnos (D). As fighting in Greece neared an end, King George II and the Greek government fled to Crete (E).

Berlin Endorses Bond Jumping By Airman

(International News Service)
BERLIN, April 24—The German government today endorsed the action of Baron Franz von Werra, ace German airman, in jumping his bond in the United States and escaping—reportedly to Peru—in an effort to return to the Reich.

(Editor's note: United States Attorney General Robert Jackson on Tuesday night said von Werra had jumped his $10,000 bond and was believed to have fled to Peru. The Nazi airman escaped from an internment camp in Canada but was arrested upon entering the United States. Later he was released under bond in custody of the German consul general in New York City.)

In announcing von Werra's departure, Jackson said the flier had "taken flight in violation of the terms of his release" and added this constituted a "flagrant abuse of neutral hospitality which had been invoked in his behalf."

Wilhelmstrasse officials endorsed von Werra's action on grounds that Germany "no longer can trust American hospitality or police authority."

Tremendous damage however, was caused by the huge British naval guns, which hurled 530 tons of shells against the port, the main rear base for the combined Italo-German forces threatening Egypt and the Suez canal.

Berlin Reports Defenses North Of Athens Are Cracking Under Attack

CLAIM BRITISH SEEK TO ESCAPE

Nazis Expect To Stage Triumphant March Into Greek Capital Sunday

By PIERRE J. HUSS
International News Service Staff
Correspondent

BERLIN, April 24—Greek and British defenses north of Athens were reported cracking today as mechanized German legions rolled steadily toward the Greek capital and sent advance squads as far forward as the city's outskirts.

There were local clashes between land units, but German authorities declared the entire picture in Greece now is similar to the scenes of disintegration witnessed in the other nations which have been overrun by the German blitzkrieg.

British Seek To Escape

Chief action, these quarters said, was a struggle by shattered British expeditionary forces to escape and German luftwaffe units which ranged southeast along the Greek coast to prevent the British from getting away.

German authorities said the action has narrowed down to an aerial hunt for the British at embarkation spots where the "remnants" of the B. E. F. are attempting to board transport vessels.

As soon as the German planes spot these points, it was stated, land units race to engage the British. These land forces usually find

You pick a spot you can park your car and leave it to go and eat, or you stop a bit at your favorite store and park your car in the street. And when you return, there awaiting you, is a notice done up in red, you read it over and then reflect and usually what it has said, is "you're parked your car near a fire plug, or in a restricted zone, come up and see us" the message says, "it will cost you only a bone." So the moral is, if you want to stay out of that fix, just keep your car where it should be kept, the weather is fifty six.

Committee Is Boosting James' Budget

Major Changes Will Be Urged

House Committee Is Nearing Final Action On Proposed State Budget

DEMOCRATS SEEK LARGE INCREASES

By RAYMOND WILCOVE
International News Service Staff Correspondent

HARRISBURG, April 24.—A substantial increase in Gov. Arthur H. James' $542,000,000 biennial state budget is being made by the House appropriations committee, which is now hearing final action on the administration's fiscal program, it was learned today.

House Majority Leader Leo A. Achteman, chairman of the appropriations committee, which has been studying the general appropriation bills since February, said the governor's forecast of revenue for the next two years was "very substantially underestimated." The increase is therefore expected to be covered by this additional tax revenue and without recourse to new taxation.

Governor James estimated the revenue for the next biennium at $413,396,357 and predicted that there would be an increase in revenue during the next two years of approximately $25,000,000 from present taxes. The Democrats apparently feel the increase will be substantially more than that.

Major Increases.

Among some of the major increases to be made in the state budget, as submitted by the governor, are these:

1. Approximately $12,000,000 for the administration of 12 county hospitals slated to be taken over by the state on June 1. A recommendation by the governor that the enabling act of 1938 be postponed for another two years will not be approved by the house, thus bringing the act automatically into effect.

2. Approximately $8,000,000 for state aid voted local communities in 1937 and postponed in 1939, the money to be used for reimbursing school districts for funds expended for transportation of pupils, high school tuition and supervision for crippled children. The governor asked that this law also be postponed for another two years.

3. The sum of $3,200,000 to increase the salaries of fourth class school district teachers.

4. An increase in the budgets of the Democratic-held auditor general's and treasury departments to bring them in conformity with the increases granted by the governor to Republican-administered departments.

The increase in the fourth class teachers' salaries is provided for in a Democratic party measure reported out of committee yesterday. The bill, introduced by Washington county representatives J. Dean Polen and Francis E. Pettit and amended in committee provides minimum annual salaries of $1,000 for elementary teachers and $1,200 for high school teachers, with two annual $50 increments.

The money is to be provided entirely by the state and Achteman estimated that the increase for the next biennium would total approximately $3,200,000, for the succeeding biennium $8,800,000 and for the third biennium $9,600,000, at which figure it would remain fixed.

For two-year terms, Retiring President Clark, who is executive vice president of First Federal Savings & Loan association, and Judge W. Walter Braham, and for a one-year term, Louis B. Round, head of Pennsylvania Power Co.

Retiring President Clark called the meeting to order last night and then, briefly, outlined some of the more significant accomplishments of the association. Then Robert M. BRITISH-GREEK FORCES MAKING FINAL DEFENSE was estimated the Germans advanced contingents already were within 30 miles of the Greek capital. Latest reports from Berlin have indicated the Germans will seek to capture Piraeus, the Port of Athens, and prevent an evacuation of British troops from the harbor there, meanwhile giving the Greek capital itself a "chance to capitulate."

The surrender of the Greek Macedonian and Epirus armies, which King George II said was not authorized by himself or his government, was arranged at Salonika. Terms of the surrender were signed by German Artillery Gen. Alfred Jodl, Italian Lieut.-Gen. Ferrero and Greek Gen. Tsolakoglou, commander of the Hellenic forces in the Epirus and Macedonia.

Explain Collapse

This morning a long communique was issued by the Greek high command explaining how the speedy collapse of Yugoslav resistance put the northwestern Greek forces in an untenable position and led to their surrender.

It was announced that waves of German planes raided Piraeus, Salamis, Attica and Megara yesterday, damaging ships and harbor installations and causing a number of civilian casualties.

One German plane crashed on an island in the Aegean, it was stated, and three members of its crew were captured.

Bombs were dropped on Corinth but caused neither damage nor casualties, according to this communique.

Still Hold Positions

London, April 24.—British forces in Greece are still holding the same defensive positions north of Athens which they held yesterday, informed British circles declared today.

These quarters said there was no truth in reports that the British left flank has broken.

Doubt was expressed whether the Germans captured the island of Lemnos near the strategic Dardanelles, but no definite information was available in London on this point.

British quarters said it was significant that the Greek army of the Epirus and Macedonia surrendered to the Germans—not to the Italians.

Says British To Hold On

London, April 24.—With "energy and determination" British and Imperial troops can hold their present positions in Greece, Sir Thomas Blaney, newly appointed deputy commander of middle eastern forces, said in an order of the day issued this afternoon.

Sir Thomas praised the manner in which Australian forces carried out their orderly retreat in Greece "despite continuous enemy air bombardment of the roads."

"Fortunately," he said, "our losses have been slight. We have learned how very inaccurate air bombings can be.

"With energy and determination on the part of every officer and soldier we can hold our present positions. I call upon every Anzac to be worthy of his father."

The order of the day was broadcast from Sir Thomas' field headquarters and heard in London.

future and that of her empire. In making our reply, I believe we should consider the future of the United States and that of the western hemisphere.

Even if America were fully prepared, Lindbergh argued, there is no place where the United States might base and maintain an army on the British Isles, and there is not enough landing space for airplane squadrons to match those of Germany.

He continued: "We have weakened ourselves for many months and still worse we have divided our own people by this dabbling in Europe's wars. While we should have been concentrating on American defense, we have been forced to argue over foreign quarrels."

"We must turn our eyes and our faith back to our own country before it is too late. And when we do this, a different vista opens before us. Practically every difficulty we would face in invading Europe becomes an asset to us in defending America."

"The United States is better situated from a military standpoint than any other nation in the world. Even in our present condition of unpreparedness, no foreign power is in position to invade us today.

"If we concentrate on our own defense, and build the strength that this nation should maintain, no foreign army will ever attempt to land on American shores."

Claiming that more than 80 per cent of the American population opposes war, Lindbergh charged that "we have been led toward war by a minority of our people—the minority has power; it has influence; it has a loud voice, but it does not represent the American people."

U. S. Senator David I. Walsh of Massachusetts preceded Lindbergh as a speaker and denounced the current proposal to convoy the lend-lease supplies to Great Britain.

Another speaker was Novelist

Kathleen Norris who urged Americans to remember that "Europe has been at war for a thousand years" and that we have no place in quarrels in which "every borderline has been soaked in each generation with young blood."

One of two fist fights occurred at the meeting, and there was a brief flurry when 20 students attempted to picket outside the hall with signs denouncing Col. Lindbergh. They were dispersed by police.

It isn't "sissy" to love birds. Teddy Roosevelt could identify all of ours by their songs, and he was the he-est of he-men.

The Parent Problem

By Garry C. Myers, Ph. D.

IF GRANDMA TAKES OVER CHILD REINS

You and I know some wise and worthy grandmothers. They don't spoil their grandchildren. They cooperate with the young parents, even set higher standards for them in child guidance. I have had some unusual grandmothers in my university classes for parents. Many grandmas write me about behavior and personality problems in their young grandchildren.

But, alas, some grandmothers are not helpful. Below is a tragic story that many other mothers could tell. "When Judy was 15 months old her paternal grandmother came to make her home with us. She has always been an aggressive, domineering sort of person and still is. Her requests are demands. She feels that Judy should be the queen of all she surveys and never be crossed. For two years she lived with us. The training of my baby was taken entirely from my hands and I was never allowed to correct her without interference and reprimand from 'Grandma.' Even her food was given—fed to her as a game—'this mouthful is a sheepie, take this mouthful, it is a big pig,' etc. . . . You can't imagine the bad effect it had on my happy, healthy, well-trained little girl. She became whiny, cross, bossy, completely dependent and spoiled. . . .

"Please don't think I am relating a sob story, for I am not. I'm not seeking to excuse myself or Judy, but now that I have had Judy to retrain, I have tried to understand why she reacts as she does and help her to grow into a well-balanced individual.

Rebellel At Last
"After two years I rebelled and told my mother-in-law it would be impossible for the condition to continue and she left, very much aggrieved and resentful. But the damage had been done and Judy's nervous system was nearly wrecked. She still has tantrums, whines. . . .

"I blame myself for not having rebelled sooner, but I thought it would be only a temporary affair. I try to harbor no resentment, but at times I am so discouraged."

Yes, we wish she had rebelled earlier, yet it might have been harder if it had been her mother, instead of her husband's mother. And some mothers just can't rebel, being economically as well as emotionally dependent. They and the unfortunate child must bear the inescapable consequences.

Let us grandparents take a lesson from this true story. Let younger parents get ready now to be good grandparents by and by.

Solving Parent Problems
Q. Would you give a child at college a car?

A. Not if he were a resident student even though I owned a million dollars. The more money I had, indeed, the less reason this child should have a car at college.

Q. When can a baby begin drinking from a cup?

A. As early as eight months, as a rule. To let the baby learn to drink orange juice, water, and milk from a cup not only helps him to learn self-reliance but prepares him to enjoy eating alone later.

The World and the Mud Puddles

MEN NEEDED

To predict a labor shortage in the United States is to envisage a condition that many people never expected to see again. Yet such is the view of the Twentieth Century Fund, after a survey of the probabilities. It offers a strong contrast with the reiterated and familiar reports of idle workers up to ten millions or more for the last decade.

On the basis of a previous survey, it has been concluded that even with the quickened demand for labor there would be an ample supply. But that was on the supposition of a sixteen-billion-dollar expenditure for defense, as provided by the last session of Congress. Then early this year the defense budget was stepped up by eleven million dollars. As a matter of fact, it now has been raised further by the latest administration request, for another $3,812,000,000, $1,750,000,000 of it a net increase—a point the fund survey does not take into account.

It does foresee however, a need for approximately six million workers in a two-year period ending with the fall of 1942, whereas the available supply of labor on a recent estimate was only four million. This estimate made allowance for men who might be drafted, those employed on government projects and those on temporary lay-offs from the same kind of employment.

Should the last two groups be included in the potential supply of workers, the picture would be considerably changed. There would be enough labor to supply any demand that now seems probable. So there isn't anything necessarily alarming in a showing of a possible labor shortage. Men could be shifted from the government projects as they were needed elsewhere. Anything to hasten that along would be all to the good.

Why Pan America Needs Priorities
Rockefeller Insists On Fair Share
South America Needs Farm Machinery

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Columnist

WASHINGTON, April 24.—Nelson Rockefeller, United States coordinator of relations between the American republics, doesn't object to priorities, but he does want our New World Latin neighbors to get their fair share of 'em.

Priorities? They've been talked about so much lately that I suppose most of us know just what they are. However, maybe a few words of definition for the benefit of the few who, possibly, have neglected to analyze 'em. Well, current emergency demands on our industries, productive capacities and our transportation facilities are so enormous that they're behindhand on orders for goods and deliveries. So, when Uncle Sam feels that a would-be customer's requirements are especially urgent, the government grants him a priority and he gets his stuff in a hurry. Some other customer, whose need isn't considered so pressing and who, consequently, hasn't got a priority mandate, has to wait awhile—perhaps indefinitely.

Co-ordinator Rockefeller inclines to think that we're liable to overdo priorities in the interest of European, African and Asiatic democratic belligerents and our transportation facilities are so enormous that they're behindhand on orders for goods and deliveries. So, when Uncle Sam feels that a would-be customer's requirements are especially urgent, the government grants him a priority and he gets his stuff in a hurry.

Now, if those southern republics don't get their essential processed supplies, says the co-ordinator, their internal economies will be knocked skyhigh. They have enough of their own raw materials, but they're not manufacturers. For example, their agriculture will be shot full of holes if they can't get farm machinery—and, with Europe at war, here's the only source of supply for 'em.

Rise for Nazis
The result will be, points out Nelson Rockefeller, that they'll be distressed financially. It will be a situation calculated to precipitate revolutions among 'em. And Nazis and Fascists will be alert to take advantage of such revolutions. It'll be an ideal state of affairs for Herr Hitler.

Not only do the Latin-Americans impressively need manufactured stuff, the co-ordinator reminds us, our ships have got to carry it to 'em. They haven't any merchant fleets of their own. He warns us against diverting too many of our cargo craft from their trade, in our enthusiasm for turning over bottoms to Britain and Britishly associated democracies.

Having been a South American resident in Argentina during most of the last World War, I have an inkling of the situation Co-ordinator Rockefeller discusses.

Those republics are raw materially, but they're not processors. Prior to that war they'd been mainly dependent upon Europe for their finished products. Our International Harvester company, our Singer Sewing Machine company, our Ford Motor company and our Remington Typewriter company had found 'em a good market, but, generally speaking, we hadn't discovered the southern continent.

World War No. 1, by shutting off their European sources of supplies, forcibly turned the Latin-American attention in our direction. They simply forced us to sell our stuff to 'em.

Then we also got into the world rumput and they couldn't get much from us, either, on account of what, in that day, amounted to our present system of priorities. It got so you couldn't get anything but ridiculously ordinary things, like twine and pins and nails and wire.

Uncle Sam Muffs
In due course the war ended. Then was our chance to horn in for keeps, and grab that market. But we muffed our opportunity.

It was purely because we weren't in any true sense aware that there was any such place as Latin America. Our fatherhoodness was fairly unbelievable. Illustratively, we could not get it through our nuts that our summer is winter and that our (Continued On Page Five)

Duplicity

WASHINGTON, April 24. LAST week when Mr. Morgenthau announced the Administration purpose to ask $3,500,000,000 more in new taxes, he spoke approvingly of the Senate action in increasing farm appropriations $450,000,000 above the President's estimate, and hoped it would not pass. This increase seemed to him indefensible; it might necessitate still heavier taxes.

MR. MORGENTHAU, of course, is absolutely right about this. It is indefensible, and he is to be commended for saying so. Nevertheless, it is proper to point out two facts which somewhat detract from the force of his statement. One is that while his is the first Administration voice raised against the shocking size of this farm-bill grab, neither he nor anyone else in the Administration indicated opposition during the weeks the bill pended in the Senate.

THE other fact is that this is not only the first word to come from the Administration on the farm bill but it is the first word that has come from any Administration officer concerning any economy since Mr. Roosevelt, nearly four months ago, told the people he intended drastically to reduce every normal governmental expenditure. Since that time he has personally endorsed the one hundred per cent. increase for the Office of Government Reports, the propaganda agency headed by one of his White House aides. In addition, he is urging construction of the St. Lawrence waterways, which would cost $280,000,000 and two years ago was rejected as a too costly experiment of dubious merit.

IN the light of these facts, the Morgenthau protest against the additional $450,000,000 seems both belated and feeble. Without in the least reflecting upon Mr. Morgenthau's sincerity, certainly it would be more convincing if his disapproval were accompanied by some assurance that the weight of his White House chief would be used in the conference committee to sustain the action of the House in rejecting the $450,000,000 Senate amendment. If it were so used, at least that much of the $1,350,000,000 could be lopped off. The bill, even as passed by the House, was inexorably big; as amended by the Senate, it became an indefensible monstrosity. (Continued On Page Five)

ANOTHER CHANGE

Nothing long unaltered stays. Change will come, we may be sure. Little of our yesterdays. Now, old things endure. Much that was has vanished quite. Cherished then, today reviled! Here's another (truth I write): Nellie's had her hair restyled!

Once upon her waist it fell. Like the Sisters Sutherland; But the young and lovely Nell Heeded fashion's stern command And, in spite of all, she fell. In an hour of frenzy wild, Let some barber bob her head, Here she is again restyled!

Years ago she wore a rat. A la Madame Pompadour. Rolled her tresses long o'er that. There's a fad I want no more. Then a newer fashion came. In a mass her locks were piled. Little ever stay the same. Nellie's hair has been restyled.

Once I tried resistance brave. Once I argued loud and long. Fought the fleeting permanent wave. Fashion, though, is much too strong. Vain were all my pleadings then, Twere as well if I had smelt. Change has struck our home again! Nellie's had her hair restyled.

A graduate of West Point, he was a battalion commander in the Mexican War, and in 1861 was commissioned a brigadier-general of volunteers. He died in 1862 of injuries suffered in an accident. City Effort For Army
Club Halls

A group of New Castle citizens this afternoon will hear plans outlined for the city's financial drive in behalf of the newly-created United Service Organizations for National Defense, Inc., formed to provide service club facilities in 339 places adjacent to army camps, naval stations and defense centers throughout the United States.

Leaders of the New Castle campaign "for about $8,000" said the group will meet in the Y. M. C. A. at 4 o'clock.

Principal speaker will be Robert L. Meermans, general secretary of the Y. M. C. A., who was called to Washington a few days ago to hear national plans presented. Representatives of the Y. M. C. A., the Y. W. C. A., the Jewish Welfare Board, the Catholic Community Service, the Salvation Army and the Travelers Aid Society will attend.

"These recreational centers," Mr. Meermans said, "will provide something to do for the army boys and the men of our huge industrial centers. Over a million young men will be helped. New Castle has been asked to do its share, and we're to explain the movement to the public group this afternoon."

The government will pay for the halls and the U. S. O. will operate them.

strosity. The Administration attitude, as now reflected by Mr. Morgenthau, is not a very militant one yet; but, at any rate, it is an improvement over the complete inertia which has characterized it in the past.

IT would be interesting to hear the explanation of Mr. Morgenthau—or, for that matter, of anyone else—of the Administration supineness which permitted the passage of the bill in the Senate without a single word of protest from the President or anyone representing him. In effect, the bill provides for full parity payments, which not only clashes with the Roosevelt pledge to "pare to the bone" but clashes with the opposition to full parity which the President has not failed to express in previous years. Strangely enough, this is the first year in which he has failed to recommend against it.

NOT only did the White House, with full knowledge of how terribly this bill would strain the Treasury, permit it to go through the House without even a gesture indicating interest, but when the $450,000,000 was added in the Senate the Administration leader—Barkley, of Kentucky—voted for it. So did Senator Byrnes, of South Carolina, the President's closest Senate friend. So did all the other Senate Democrats friendly to the Administration. The only Democrats voting against were the two from Virginia and the two from Rhode Island.

NOW, after the thing has been done, Mr. Morgenthau weakly voices disapproval; but the President, the promoter of economy, says not a word while his friends in the Senate plan—and with every prospect of success—to restore the House-rejected $450,000,000 in conference. Those who know best the Senate situation insist that the restoration is sure unless the President exerts his influence to prevent. There is no sign at all that he will do that. Without it Mr. Morgenthau's protest will be altogether ineffectual. Technically, the Administration is opposed; actually, with characteristic complacency, it is about to permit the bottom to be knocked out of its fiscal calculations.

THIS, it is submitted, is not dealing squarely with the American people. It is hypocritical and deceitful for the President of the United States solemnly to assure them that it is essential to "pare to the bone" every normal governmental expense and then to support by affirmative action increases in some appropriations and to support increases in other appropriations by passive action. This would be bad enough in normal times, but in a crisis such as this, with the resources of the nation strained to the utmost and the people as a whole called upon for great sacrifices, it is little short of shameful.

THE extraordinary thing is that no one in Congress, or outside, defends the President's attitude in this matter. None of this Congressional, Administration or journalistic spokesmen attempts to justify it. Apparently, they do not have to. Apparently, they can ignore it with impunity. It is a rather sickening thing that, in a great national emergency, their leaders can employ with this kind of duplicity in dealing with the American people without arousing their resentment.

Can Get Most Anything In France If You Will Pay Exorbitant Prices

By KENNETH DOWNS
International News Service Staff
Correspondent

LISBON, April 24.—I asked a barman I knew in Paris if he could get me a Havana cigar. He just laughed. I insisted. Finally he said: "Well, I'll try, but it will cost you plenty if I am able to find one at all."

He whispered instructions to a chauffeur who disappeared for about 30 minutes. He came back with the cigar. The bill was 150 francs (about $2.50).

You can still get almost anything in France if you are able to pay the price to the black bourse.

Black Bourse Big Business

The black bourse has become a great business in France. Thousands of people make their livelihood at the illegal business of selling everything from money to soap and clothing at unofficial prices and without requiring tickets. A few big operators, mostly Germans, have made fortunes. But the vast majority of people engaged in this traffic are little people, waiters out of work, housewives and former clerks, who just make a living. They risk up to three years imprisonment if caught.

I found a restaurant I used to know on the left bank is now virtually a headquarters of small-time black bourse operators. There I found two waiters, a mannequin and a girl who used to work in a hat shop all making their living in this way. The former mannequin said: "I have done better at this than I did in the shop before the war. I made a thousand francs just this afternoon over an aperitif arranging a contact between a man who wanted a large quantity of yarn and a man who had it. It's getting more difficult now, though, because it is getting harder all the time to find things."

She said that the biggest operators on the black bourse were German civilians.

Don't Care About Price

"They buy up everything and they don't care what they pay," she said. "I don't know what they are doing with it, but I think they are sending it into Germany. They buy clothing materials in any quantity; you can't get enough for them. It's easy working for them, because they furnish you with cars and you are never stopped and searched when you are in a German car. I have been all over the north of France with our little collaborators, buying out stocks of wool, soap, stockings, oil, everything you can think of."

She said gasoline was one of her steady sources of income. Gasoline rations are extremely low, usually not more than five to ten gallons a month except for important officials. But she said she is able to get any amount she wants from German army groups who peddle their army gas at 20 francs a liter (ground $2 per gallon).

She wrote out a list of articles giving their normal prices as compared to current black bourse prices. They are (in large lots):

Soaps, 60 francs per kilogram on the black bourse against 15 francs legal price; cooking oil, 80 francs a liter against 12; coffee, 60 francs per kilogram against 16; eggs, five francs each against 1.75 francs; beans, 15 francs per kilo against 3; chickens, 100 pieces against 35; rabbits, 80 pieces against 28; potatoes, 80 per bottle against 35; knitting wool, 217 per kilo against 90; wooden cloth, 400 per meter against 80; silk stockings, 95 against 35; cigarettes, 25 against 9; gasoline, 20 per liter against 8.

I asked her how she liked this work.

"Pouf, I don't like it, and I don't think old grandpa down in Vichy would like it," she said. "But one must live."

BACKACHE, LEG PAINS MAY BE DANGER SIGN Of Tired Kidneys

If backache and leg pains are making you miserable, don't just complain and do nothing about them. Nature may be warning you that your kidneys need attention. The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking excess acids and poisons out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

If the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, poisonous waste matter stays in the blood. These poisons may start nagging backaches, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there's something wrong with your kidneys or bladder. Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give long relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from the blood. Get Doan's Pills.

MORE MEN THAN WOMEN IN U. S.

Census Bureau Report Shows
66,183,000 Men And 65,
486,000 Women In Nation

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, April 24.—The United States is definitely a man's world—the census bureau reporting today that the males outnumber the females 66,183,000 to 65,486,000. More simply, there are 101 men for every 100 women.

It's not that way in all sections of the country, however, and if a man wants to go where he girls are in the majority, the bureau recommends New England, New York, New Jersey, Missouri, South Carolina, Georgia, Florida, Louisiana, Tennessee, Mississippi Alabama and the District of Columbia. The greatest shortage of women was noted in the mountain states where there was a ratio of 108 males to every 100 females. New England, on the other hand, had 109 women to every 100 men. Massachusetts had 95 men for every 100 women. Nevada, however, had 123 males for every 100 females.

Migrating isn't the most remarkable thing the birds do. Suppose men were born with the instinctive ability to build a house.

Coal Wage Battle Now Certified To Mediation Board

essary to certify the entire wage dispute in the bituminous coal industry to the national defense mediation board.

"It is now clear that the southern operators have withdrawn from the negotiations and declined to agree to the president's proposal to reopen the mines. The northern operators accepted the proposal and the United Mine Workers accepted it but in each case the acceptance was contingent on all the mines reopening."

"Certification of the case to the board was postponed so as to give all parties concerned an opportunity to comply with the president's request to reopen the mines."

Hopelessly Deadlocked

L. T. Putnam, spokesman for the southern operators, said that the negotiations had been hopelessly deadlocked and the only way to solve the dispute was to certify it to the national defense mediation board. The southern delegation, which left New York shortly after midnight, will communicate with the White House later today, he said.

Following the breakdown in negotiations, Dr. John R. Steelman, director of the federal conciliation service, charged that the southern operators "by leaving the negotiations and in failing to comply with the request to open the mines have taken upon themselves a grave responsibility."

The work stoppage in the mines, it is estimated, is now causing a production loss of 100,000 tons of steel weekly because of the forced closing down of blast furnaces and beehive coke ovens. Other defense industries also are reported to be beginning to feel the pinch due to lack of coal.

Break Off Negotiations

Last night's decision to break off the negotiations, which had only resumed Tuesday night after an interruption of 11 days, was taken by the southern several hours after Steelman had announced that the northern operators and the UMW had accepted the president's proposal for resumption of operations.

Under Mr. Roosevelt's plan, proposed last Monday, the 260,000 miners of the northern group would return to work immediately under the terms of the new two-year contract between the union and the northern operators which was agreed upon last week. This contract calls for an increase in the basic daily wage rate from $6 to $7.

The president proposed that the southern miners return to work at their old basic wage of $5.60 pending continuation of negotiations. Any wage increases were to become retroactive.

Bolted On April 11

The southerners first bolted the joint Appalachian conference April 11 in protest against an agreement of the northern wage operators to the UMW's demand for elimination of the 40-cent wage differential in the south which would oblige the southerners to pay an increase of $1.40 a day.

Both the UMW's and the northern operators' acceptance of the president's proposal was contingent upon southern acceptance. John L. Lewis, in a press conference yesterday, made it clear that the UMW would not divide its forces by allowing northern workers to return if the south did not.

"If the southern operators refuse then the responsibility will rest on them," Lewis said. "The southern operators can answer to their own government. The miners have made an unqualified answer."

In previous declarations, Lewis has gone on record as being opposed to the mediation board. There was no indication early today what stand the CIO leader would take now that the case has been formally certified by Secretary Perkins.

HOSTILITY IS SEEN TO MORGENTHAU'S NEW TAX PROGRAM

before the committee by joint congressional committee tax experts which bears more lightly upon lower and middle class incomes. Under the tentative treasury plan a married man with $2,500 income would pay $72 taxes instead of the present $11, while under the staff plan he would pay $44.

Open Hearings Monday

The tentative plan of the House body was to hear Morgenthau, Assistant Secretary of the Treasury John L. Sullivan and other treasury experts this week, and open its hearings to public witnesses on Monday.

Meantime, critical senatorial comment was heard on the treasury's proposal to raise $1,500,000,000 revenue from individual income taxpayers from lowest to the highest, with biggest increases on the lower incomes which have been touched lightly in the past.

Sen. LaFollette (D., Wis.), said that he would oppose any increase in the 10 per cent defense super-tax, saying that this would constitute "meat-axe tactics." Despite treasury proposals to raise about $1,000,000,000 from excise taxes, he suggested a reduction in these levies if possible.

Would Realize Cost

Sen. Capper (R., Kans.), endorsed a huge tax bill, but said that the bulk of the money should come from higher income tax brackets. "If I had my way," declared Sen. Clark (D., Ida.), "I'd have the government confiscate all profits over $10,000. The people would then realize the cost of an undeclared war."

Rep. Reed (R., N. Y.), voiced doubt that the treasury plan would avoid spiraling prices and inflation. "I have noticed the rapid rise in the price level in England in spite of the very heavy taxation," he said. Some Democratic members expressed fear that taxes would be made so high that business would be disrupted, and in the end less taxes would be obtained.

Morgenthau Is Heard

WASHINGTON, April 24.—Secretary of Treasury Morgenthau today warned the nation that all classes of its citizens—the poor and the rich—shall bear their fair share of the burden. In the new $3,500,000,000 tax program.

Declaring that "we are faced with a greater challenge than any in the history of the republic" Morgenthau outlined before the House ways and means committee the guiding principles behind the drive to raise funds for the drive for total defense.

The secretary described the most important features of the program as "an increase of income tax rates, a lowering of the minimum income subject to surtax, an increase in excess profits tax and, finally, new excise taxes on a number of commodities which are not essential to the defense program."

Morgenthau urged the committee to "reexamine with a magnifying glass" government expenditures "which are neither for purposes of defense nor for purposes of relief and security from want."

NERVOUS FROM RESTLESS NIGHTS? Is It Your Kidneys?

Active, normal-acting kidneys and bladder expel from the blood excess acids and poisons—that's their health-giving job.

If kidneys are sluggish or not active enough, these harmful acids and poisons may stay in the blood and cause much misery and distress, and bring on ill health in this regard.

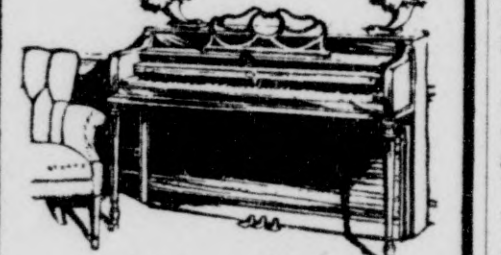

For instance, lazy kidneys may make you nervous if they cause you to lose sleep because of getting up frequently at night. Also may cause dizzy spells, headache, leg cramps or swollen ankles.

Better try a 35-cent box of GOLD MEDAL HAZEL OIL CAPSULES—a real kidney tonic and stimulant that may do you a lot of good.

They have been helping people for scores of years to relieve their aches and pains when caused by lazy, sluggish kidneys.

But be sure and ask for and get Gold Medal Hazel Oil Capsules—the genuine—pure and original. Don't be an easy mark and accept a cheap substitute—Look for the GOLD MEDAL on the box—the sign of purity—35 cents.

GERMAN FORCES PUSH ONWARD TOWARD ATHENS

British rear guard in a cliff-like canyon designed to withstand attacks while the main bodies of troops attempt to escape, it was stated.

North of Athens, authoritative quarters said, the military picture is confused.

This region was described as dotted by scattered Greek army units which frequently capitulate piecemeal as soon as they are reached by German Panzer forces.

Bridges And Tunnels Blasted

Military reports to Berlin said the Germans found every bridge, road, tunnel and railway along their line of march toward Athens either blasted or heavily barricaded by the retreating Greek and British forces.

Patrolling German airmen reported sighting only scattered enemy units and said the "remnants of the British expeditionary force" were gathering at isolated coastal spots, waiting for a chance to escape from Greece aboard transport vessels.

It appeared that most of the British troops were being embarked at night aboard hundreds of launches that took them off beaches lining the Grecian coast.

These small craft, the aerial scouts said, were transporting the British troops to transport vessels lurking in various island bays. German sources said that on the basis of latest reports it could be assumed Athens would fall without firing a shot, and that possibly Piraeus, the port of Athens, would capitulate also without resistance.

Into Athens Sunday

German engineer battalions were kept busy opening the road to Athens and it was believed in Berlin that the German army would stage a triumphant parade into the Greek capital on Sunday. Meanwhile, Berlin quarters said, the work of mopping up the surrounding region will progress.

The German forces moved against Athens after "annihilating" a British rear guard force at historic Thermopylae pass, it was stated.

German quarters said they considered that the Greek capital itself would be given a "chance to capitulate" rather than suffer the ordeal of attack.

Full occupation of Athens is expected by tonight, authentic German quarters said, adding that German forces already may be in the city's outskirts.

"The Balkan offensive can be considered ended," an official spokesman said.

The situation as it stands now is that King George II of Greece and his government have fled from Athens to Crete while the Greek armies of the Epirus and Macedonia have capitulated unconditionally.

In addition, German sources said, owing to constant Luftwaffe attacks on British evacuation ships, the British debacle in Greece may grow to even more disastrous proportions than the debacle of Dunkirk.

Harold Gray, of 240 North Ray street, who was involved in an automobile accident, in Pittsburgh, on April 7, when the driver of a bakery truck was killed, was exonerated of all blame at the coroner's inquest, held at Pittsburgh, April 22. John M. Benson, 1612 East Washington street, a brother-in-law, who was present at the inquest, states that it was proven the truck driver was traveling at an excessive rate of speed and had lost control of the truck, when it crashed into the side of Mr. Gray's car.

Girl Reserves Observe Sixtieth Anniversary

During this week, April 20-26, Girl Reserves in the United States and Hawaii are celebrating their 60th anniversary. These younger members of the Y. W. C. A. plan not only to have fun and good times this week, but to interpret their program and ideals to the community in which they live.

A primary emphasis in the G. R. movement is placed on democratic procedure and the application of new educational methods that have been tested and found valuable. Some of these new trends as applied to Girl Reserves are as follows:

Emphasis on satisfaction derived from the experience itself instead of on awards as had been the custom prior to 1927.

The development of attitudes, especially those of social responsibility and democracy in program, and arranging program to meet needs of the group instead of following a "standardized paper program."

The working together of women and girls on committees and in activities.

In any club one finds a cross section of community life representing different social and economic strata and many religious creeds. The colored "Y" on Elm street has three G. R. clubs and representation on Central "Y" committees.

Democratic representation of G. R. clubs on Y. W. C. A. committees, such as the World Fellowship committee and special all-association committees.

Present officers and advisers of Girl Reserves in New Castle are:

Shenango: President, Marian Black; vice president, Alberta Henderson; secretary, Iretta Saisons; treasurer, Ella Mae Ort; advisor, Frances Booser. Mahoningtown: President, Esther Cangey; vice president, Gloria Stritzinger; secretary, Norma Lee Fulton; treasurer, Antoinette Izzo; advisors, Jane Young, Jane Kyle, Mrs. Frances Butts.

K. of C. Changes Name Of Council

Membership Drive Is Making Favorable Progress; Father's Day Breakfast Planned

Wednesday evening members of the Knights of Columbus gathered in the K. of C. home, North Jefferson street, at which time the name of the council, St. Mary's No. 512, was changed and will be known hereafter as the New Castle Council, No. 512, of Knights of Columbus. James Carlin, field representative, addressed the group on the national membership drive, which is now in progress. A favorable report of new members was given, the group to be initiated sometime this summer. The drive is also being held in honor of the Supreme Knight Matthews of the national office.

Due to conflicting events, it was decided by the members to have the annual communion breakfast on Father's Day this year, instead of Mother's Day as in previous years. A chairman will be appointed for this event, and a list of committees will be assigned.

On May 14 the K. of C. Building association will meet at 7:30 o'clock, and following the regular meeting will take place at 8 o'clock.

Blessed are the self-assured. They don't feel their vanity by rubbing it in when they catch you in a mistake.

SUGGESTS CHANGE IN HOURS FOR CITY HALL

During city council meeting in the municipal building today Finance Director James L. Fink suggested that all city hall offices should open at 8:30 a. m. and close at 4 p. m., between May and September. No action will be taken upon the suggestion until next week. According to Director Fink there is no activity in city hall until 8:30 a. m. and business slows down after the banks close at 2 p. m.

Mayor Charles B. Mayne asserted that the change in hours would not affect him.

Letter From England To New Castle Man Tells Of Conditions

One of the most revealing letters to pass the British censor has been received here by P. J. Flaherty, president of the Johnson Bronze company. The letter is written by W. B. D. Brown, managing director of the Glacier Metals company of Middlesex, near London, England.

This company manufactures practically the same class of product as is manufactured by the Johnson Bronze company and has the use of the Johnson patents and facilities. Mr. Flaherty is a member of the board of directors of the Glacier company and before the present war made periodical trips over.

The letter follows:

Dear Mr. Flaherty:

You must excuse this paper, but such material is short over here nowadays and one uses what is to hand without scruple.

My immediate care for writing is to give some expression to the feeling of intense gratitude which I feel for your country on account of the passing of the lend-lease bill and for the brave and thrilling words with which your national spokesman followed it.

I write hoping that you will find space in your work magazine to publish this letter, because I know that in giving vent to my personal feelings I am also expressing what every Britisher feels today.

We have all hoped so hard for so much less, the extent of the fulfillment of those hopes has been so bounteous that I cannot but be sure that what you give in kind and in moral encouragement will be more than repaid in years to come by goodwill from this side of the ocean. To say more on this subject is to belittle the sincerity of what I have already written.

I have received copies of both your work magazine and your local newspaper containing the several letters I wrote you. It is rather a thrill to see oneself for the first time in print. I will continue to write at intervals whenever I feel that there is something worth saying. If I confine myself to the personal angle on the war I shall not bore you by giving inferior accounts of what is more familiar to you through the efforts of American journalists in London.

I have been examining my own reactions to the foreign situation—pre-war the French appeared to be as civilized and as advanced people as any. Today doubts enter our heads over here. It is disconcerting, to put it mildly, to be left alone to fight, but as one could believe that any form even a mild form of antagonism could be displayed to them to us. Such, however, seems to be the position today. It is the most intense puzzle to us, perhaps from your more remote viewpoint you can see the reason; I can't.

Their sole chance of avoiding continued German domination and all it implies lies in our victory, and yet they seem ready at times to make that victory harder. When the war is won they will certainly get a square deal, because their defeat was in some measure our blame as well as theirs, but I doubt if this country will ever bring itself to identify its interests with France to the extent it has done for the last ten years. I hope instead, and I firmly believe that we will go all out to gain a community of interest with the U. S. A. Could we be one nation? Thoughts like that enter the head at every turn. I believe that our commonwealth needs new leadership. In spite of the present display of courage that is being put up here, I believe that the type of mind which is being bred in U. S. A. Canada, Australia, is better able to set the pace for the English speaking world than those born and bred in this island under the shadow of the international series of crimes with which the last four hundred years have been biot-ted.

Our works are still unscathed. We are indeed fortunate. Nightly we make our preparations for the worst. We mount our home guard at dusk, eighteen strong, to keep watch until dawn. Now partly due to your efforts, they are equipped completely. Their uniforms make them undistinguishable from regular troops. At the two vulnerable corners our premises are wicked looking little brick pill-boxes enclosing machine guns. Each man can throw a Molotov Cocktail with the best (this is the name given to a simple bomb comprising a beer bottle filled with petrol and pitch with a fuse—very effective against tank and armored car attacks). Each has rifle and bayonet and we sport a Lewis gun on our roof as a deterrent to low flying enemy aircraft. To maintain a guard of eighteen per night we run a home-guard company of over two hundred so that no man does more than one duty per week and production is not interfered with.

Nightly we check over our firemen who work in uniform always. Their equipment rests by their machines and there are always twelve of them in the works week ends as well as week days. They are equipped with a mobile fire pump and reinforced with eighteen bomb searchers, each of whom has a specific part of the works to search if fire bombs are dropped.

Each night our first aid squad, ten in number, checks over their arrangements for cleansing those affected with gas and arranges their antidotes and bandages ready for use. And so on down to the rescue squad with ropes and crow bars and the de-contamination squad with their chloride of lime. It is all rather unreal until the papers give the details of casualties and burnt factories.

We have a large building program in force. Increased output taxes not only machine capacity but all the various services which go to keep the place efficient. We need larger offices because of the increased administration due to such causes as material rationing, government costing, new statistics required by the war industries, etc. We need larger cloakroom and washing capacity for our women workers because we have so many more of them. We need an entirely new labour and welfare office to deal with the manifold problems arising from the employment of so many who have never been in industry before. We need a new canteen because so many more require to be served with hot meals on the premises due to the longer hours worked and food rationing. We serve each week some 25,000 cups of tea alone and our canteen in itself has become a large establishment as catering businesses go.

Much of this new building will provide better all-round working conditions and in carrying out such work we are following the lead set by Mr. Bevin. Today every British factory of any size must have a labour officer, a welfare worker, a well equipped first aid room, a canteen with good cooking facilities. War is at least teaching us the value of welfare work; its importance has never been placed higher in this country than it is today—well done, Mr. Bevin, I say.

Food slowly and surely becomes a problem. We know we have got to face some real shortage this summer. Just now it is only a question of not being able to suit one's taste. There is plenty of one sort or another to avoid the least suspicion of hunger, but we have now to regard jam, butter, sugar, chocolate and even good old roast beef as a real luxury. Every garden, and you, who knows England so well, remember that every home, however small, tries to possess its own over here, every garden is a vegetable garden now. "Dig for Victory" is one of the best slogans put over this war. We have lots of vegetables and we eat lots of soup and salads. Though not to the taste of my palate, I am a better man on such a diet so that is another part of the silver lining to the cloud. All this makes us wish a little anxiously that your shipbuilding industry was as big as ours. Would that we had the use of those Irish naval bases; it may yet mean the difference between great privation and plenty.

Some weeks ago a school friend spent his week-end army leave with me in London. He is an artillery major and he talked about the army. They have had a complete winter of the most terrific training. He had been through the Dunkirk episode and seen lots of action and I have reason to rely on him as an acute observer of what goes on around him. Our troops, man for man, were more than a match for Jerry then. Now they are the best army we have ever possessed. The British army in its entirety has never had a whole winter of undisturbed training before. He did me a lot of good.

He also nearly brought me to disaster. After three weeks training on the moors he wanted a good dinner—music and so forth, so we arranged to visit one of the west end theatres. Happily for us he felt unfit at the last moment and we didn't go. An H. E. bomb exploded in the middle of the dance floor that same evening.

That brings me to another point. I have learnt a lesson. Poor people here have shown the stuff they are made of, but having dinner in the Savoy one night a while back with my brother home on leave, I looked around and thought, "these people here around me represent the millstone round the neck of their country." "Here," I thought, "amongst this champagne drinking crowd are the selfish people of the land who will let the side down when the time comes. These sort of people have been the butt of our serious writers for years. Such as they have given colour to the cry of decadence which has been levelled at us by the world in general."

Well I had an eye witness account of the bomb which exploded on the dance floor. You will recollect the story of the British man-o-war which went down many years ago off Birkenhead with its crew and troops all standing in their ranks to attention on deck. Well that was the sort of show the "champagne drinking crowd" put up. By all accounts it was quite a little epic. So you see behind the mask of traditional insanity there perhaps after all lies something really worth while.

The blitz is waking up again. London is getting a share but only a share. Jerry is after our ports and Glasgow for the first time was the object of his malignant attention last week. I wonder how my country are taking it. (Mr. Brown is a Scotman). I was in Glasgow three weeks ago and was impressed by the difference between them and the Londoner. It sounds absurd but the Scot appears to have something in common with the Chinaman. It is almost, in his eyes, an offense against decency to show too much evidence of any of the emotions, joy or sadness, anger or the opposite. They all appeared to be living up to this and the effect was to make a visitor think that they were unaware that there was a war. Perhaps that is putting it too strongly but it was a trifle unreal.

They have a big responsibility on their hands. I believe I am correct in saying that in peace the River Clyde launches more new shipping per annum than any single country including yours. More power to their elbow I say.

The blitz as I was saying is now wide-spread but we are comforted by several things, firstly, the increased effectiveness of our anti-aircraft gunnery, secondly, by our night fighters who are doing wonders, thirdly, by certain other measures which are being taken, and, fourthly, by the increased volume of our own reply in kind (thanks to the supply of American bombing planes).

On the whole, therefore, we are facing the expected large scale spring air offensive with more confidence than we expected to be able to muster. My wife being now a part time V. A. D. spends one complete night a week on duty at hospital and having seen many really noisy nights through in this fashion has decided that the air raid shelter is not so comfortable as she thought. So we now listen to the barrage and the drone of Jerry's engines from the comfort of our beds. Frankly we may be stupid but when one has a full day's work ahead on the morrow, bed is the best place for the night.

The one real worry is the thought of mustard gas. I feel that when Hitler realizes the corner your "Bill" has placed him in, he will use it. Some of the incendiary bombs contain a very irritating but non-lethal gas now. Some have a change of explosive. One cannot tell by their appearance which it is which brings me to the subject of fire watches.

Every able bodied citizen now has to do 48 hours firewatching at night per month now-compulsory. My wife and I do our spell for three hours from 2.30 to 5.30 a. m. each Monday. During the period of a raid we may be seen patrolling our particular road armed as follows: I carry a sack of sand and the lid of a dust bin, 2 feet in diameter. This is a shield against the explosive type of incendiary bomb for use when attacking them. The sand is to throw on the bomb. My wife carries a shovel with a six foot handle. This is to lift the bomb in and deposit it where it can burn itself out without harm. We each have a steel helmet and we wear our gas masks if we have to deal with a bomb.

On the doorstep of each house is a pail of water and a small hand pump for dealing with small fires started by the bomb.

So far we personally have not gone into action but I know many people who have. The scheme is nation-wide and is proving most effective indeed. It seems very hard on our womenfolk to have to do such work but many complete roads are denuded of men owing to calls made on them by the forces.

Talking of our women folk reminds me that they are very much in the news. Next week all women between the ages of 20 and 21 will have to register for national service in factories. Those with children will probably not be called upon but the others, unless usefully occupied already, will take jobs and release more men for the army. We expect this system to extend to women of greater age up to about 35 years. That sounds awfully like the Nazi method but don't think it. There has been terrific agitation from the ranks of our womenfolk for such a scheme for ages. The government in this case only follow where public opinion has led.

I think I can close (a) that note. Whatever you may read to the contrary just believe one thing we are playing the democratic game over here fair and square. In fact we look far more like a democracy over here today than we did in the snooty days of Chamberlain and his fellow Etonians (or perhaps it was Rugby or Harrow). Most of us know that the more effort we are allowed to give now the sooner it will be over so we don't argue when Churchill asks for more.

I shall look forward to another letter from you like your last. The staff of the company here having read your last ask me to encourage you to repeat the effort.

Yours very sincerely,
W. B. D. BROWN.

Dr. Dafoe's Column On The Quintuplets And The Care Of Your Children

(Copyright, 1941, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

DEPRIVATION OF SOMETHING URGED AS BETTER PUNISH- MENT THAN WHIPPING

How best to discipline the child? There is an eternal question. It is eternal because generally the two children are alike in their reaction to any one method of punishment, and parental ideas of wrongdoing are constantly changing.

Children have rights and privileges just as adults have, but the extent to which these are recognized and maintained by adults varies from family to family, and very often there is very little consistency about them even in a family. Yet consistency is the very basis of discipline.

For discipline simply means training. Training in good habits.

At our nursery in Callander, we strive to be consistent always in our dealing with the quintuplets. And we take pride in the fact that they have never been whipped. We have carried on our training of them in good habits, in getting obedience and cooperation, without ever laying a hand on them as punishment.

Our hardest disciplinary method is confinement to an isolation room for short periods. It happens that "solitary," as we call it, is particularly hard on any of the quints, so used are they to being together.

But let me explain that "solitary" doesn't mean shutting them up in a closet. Our isolation room is just a small room next to their bedroom that is used for storage. It is not dark, and it has a table and chair for the offender. She may take with her into "solitary" a toy of her choice. Usually she sets the period of her confinement there herself. That is, when she has come to realize her error and has asked to be permitted to rejoin her sisters, she is allowed to do so.

With many other children, this method might not be satisfactory at all. Some children are used to being alone, or like being alone, and "solitary" would not be punishment. But that doesn't mean that whipping is the alternative. If not companionship, there is something else which the child enjoys or would dislike to be deprived of—some precious possession or privilege. Deprivation of something is a natural punishment for wrongdoing throughout life. And punishments of children should always have some relationship to the result the offense would bring in adult life.

No child could possibly enjoy whipping or slapping, elders think, so there are common ways of enforcing discipline. However, all studies made of the subject show them to be dangerous methods and they should never be resorted to without considerable reflection.

However, if parents stopped and reflected, they would never whip children. Whipping is something always done when a parent or elder is angry, and then in a spirit of retaliation, a revenge, not of a corrective measure. And it invokes fear and resentment in the recipient, tends to make the child feel that it is an expiation of his wrongdoing, an atonement for the misdeed. To him it settles the account and relieves him of further responsibility for his act.

Now, I'm not contending that children would go around carrying a load of guilt. Still, when parents punish, they should not leave the child with the impression that a dusting of his pants or a slap or two squares any misdeeds. Such a child never learns to refrain from wrongdoing because it is wrong, he refrains because he decides that he is likely to get caught or the fun he'll have won't be worth the punishment.

ABOUT FRINGED GENTIAN

Mahoningtown, Pa.
Route 7.

New Castle News:

Dear Sirs:

In regard to the items, I have read in The News concerning the fringed gentian, thought this might interest you.

About 12 years ago when I was going to school we were studying about the closed and fringed Gentian. I told my teacher who then was Mrs. Ella Meechem that the fringed and closed ones grew in a swamp on our farm. She said the closed ones might but could hardly believe that the fringed variety did as they were not as plentiful.

So one evening she drove me home from school and I showed her where they were, and she was very much surprised.

So she gathered a few and took back to school for our study work. We do not live on that farm now, but it was located near the Frew Mill road, and I knew lots of the closed ones grew on the Frew Mill road across from McCaslin school house, as I went there to school. (The school house is torn down now), but the only fringed ones I knew of then grew on our farm. They were of a very pretty shade of blue.

Not that we were talking about cemeteries but did you ever know how many cemeteries there are in Lawrence County? Would you say twenty, forty, fifty? Any one of the figures would be wrong. By actual count there are 83 according to Charles Ross chief clerk of the permanent registration bureau and registrar of graves.

Of the 83, fifteen are private cemeteries, owned by families, some of them having one or two graves. Others have half a dozen. A number are small cemeteries owned by country churches. But of all kinds there are 83.

Mr. Ross has superimposed upon a map of Lawrence County the locations of the cemeteries in the county and can tell you exactly where any one of the 83 is at a moment's notice.

Two divorce cases have been filed with the Prothonotary and Clerk of Courts John A. Edgar.

The inspection of the Cherry street bridge is about completed and plans can be drawn shortly for the repairs. The engineers who have been inspecting the bridge are experts from Pittsburgh and have found some serious faults in the bridge. It has stood since 1874 and has been a good bridge. With proper repairs it will be good for another half century it is thought.

DAILY DOZEN

(From the Medical Society of the State of Pennsylvania)

Few persons appreciate their skin although it plays many parts.

It is one of the most important organs of the human body.

No one can live if a large area of it has been destroyed.

The skin acts as a waterproof covering.

It is immune to many microorganisms and repels germs and fungi.

It acts as a cooling system in summer.

In winter, the skin is a heat regulating mechanism.

Some persons have dry skins, others have oily skins.

Too much fat, strong or fried foods may encourage oily skins.

Certain rules maintain healthy, attractive skins.

Frequent bathing, proper garments, mild diets and normal weight.

Conservatively wise exposure to sunlight is important at this time of year.

Stock Market
Is Irregular

Numerous Gains Are Scored
But General List Lags
Somewhat

(International News Service)
NEW YORK, April 24.—The stock market turned irregular today after a brief effort to continue yesterday's rally. Numerous gains were scored and rails were particularly active but the general list refused to follow.

Southern Pacific was very active in rails, starting with 3,000 shares. It eased later. Atchafalpa, C. & O. and Great Northern were higher.

Bethlehem was higher in steels, starting with a point gain. U. S. Steel and others in the group gave ground.

Dow was a weak chemical, losing over 2 points. Dupont was up almost a point but lost this later. Chrysler sagged and General Motors was steady.

Westinghouse advanced over a point. General Electric was off.

Most aviation stocks were firm to slightly higher. Oils were better, and utilities were quiet and steady. Coppers were mixed. Howe Sound gained over a point.

Post Office Clerk
Jots Down A Few
Postal Oddities

(International News Service)

LOS ANGELES.—The man who makes a hobby of publicizing the world's biggest business, the United States postal service, details a number of postal oddities he has gathered since he began his hobby five years ago.

He is J. B. Trapp, now a clerk in the Los Angeles Postoffice, who turns out a weekly newspaper cartoon on postal oddities and prepares two postal radio programs a week.

Here are some of the oddities. Bing Crosby was once a postal clerk; the first American airmail was in 1793, when an attempt was made to send a letter of George Washington to France by balloon; the postoffice sells 35 types of stamps not usable in payment of postage; business letters were written in wet clay by early Persians, Egyptians and Babylonian merchants and baked inside bricks. Chinese used "airmail" centuries ago by writing messages on rice paper and fastening them to the legs of grey geese.

Hold-up Of Woman On Hillcrest Ave. Admitted By Pair

Youths Held In Youngstown
Admit Holdup In New Castle,
February 13,
Police Say

Harold Cox and Owen H. Bickel, 20 and 22, respectively, both of Ohio, held in Mahoning County, O., jail for reported sluggings of women and who are believed to have shot and killed one woman, reportedly admitted to Chief of Police W. G. McMullen and Chief of Detectives R. A. Criswell yesterday that they attacked and robbed Mrs. Thomas Shibek, of Hillcrest avenue, in that thoroughfare on the night of February 13.

They asserted that they came here, drove up Highland avenue and saw Mrs. Shibek in Hillcrest avenue. Cox got out of the car, followed Mrs. Shibek and when a dark spot was reached he struck her, knocked her down, kicked her, seized her pocketbook which contained $2.00, then re-entered the automobile.

According to the two police authorities the youths said they did not commit any other hold-ups here that night because the girl with them had a tooth-ache. They drove to a pharmacy where they bought tooth-ache medicine for the girl after which they drove to their rooming-house in Spring street, in Youngstown.

The youths are held for a series of hold-ups throughout Ohio. During one of the hold-ups a Youngstown woman was shot and killed. Stories told by the youth and reported girl companions differ. The youths are awaiting action by the Mahoning County, O., grand jury, it was stated.

Plan Playground Work For Summer

Recreation Board Has Session
At City Hall On Wednesday Evening

New Castle's 1941 playground possibilities were discussed last night at City Hall by the city's five-member Recreation board.

The group welcomed the board of education's new spokesman, Dr. Arthur B. Foster and Griff Thomas, and went over all phases of the playground program.

Because of financial support furnished locally, the Works Projects Administration will continue its cooperation with recreational leaders here this summer, in spite of the fact that most of the WPA help is being withdrawn throughout most of the 14-county area. Frank A. Leonard, WPA education director spoke for his organization.

Board President Loyal J. "Odey" Foster, who presided, submitted his resignation because of press of personal business demands. It is expected Mayor Charles B. Mayne will appoint his successor before the recreational group elects new officers at a meeting May 1.

Dodgers Have Shaken Slump

Witlow Wyatt Turns In Four-Hitter To Beat Phils, Walters Blanks Cubs

CARDINALS AGAIN DEFEAT PIRATES

By PAT ROBINSON
International News Service Sports Writer

NEW YORK, April 24.—Class has already begun to tell in both major leagues and it is apparent that we are not in for any upsetting surprises.

There are no dark horses and even at this early stage it seems likely the teams that figure to finish in the first division in each circuit will do just that.

The Dodgers, for instance, looked like bushers the first few days of the season but they have started to click now and it should not be long before they and the Reds and Cardinals are fighting it out for the lead.

Wyatt In Shape.

The pitchers are beginning to come into their own as witness the performances of Whitlow Wyatt of the Dodgers and Bucky Walters of the Reds. Both lost their first starts but yesterday Wyatt turned in his second straight shut-out, a four hit, 4-0 victory over the Phils and Walters blanked the Cubs with five hits, 5 to 0.

Injuries hampered the Dodgers all last year and they can thank their lucky stars that Larry Macphail insisted that they all wear protective caps while at bat this year.

For yesterday Pete Reiser, the Dodgers' sensational rookie outfielder, was felled by a fast ball thrown by Ike Pearson and was carried off on a stretcher. The hospital report today says Pete has only a mild concussion but we hate to think what he might have had were it not for that protective piece inside the cap protecting the side of the skull.

Sam Nahem, a rookie, who was once the property of the Dodgers, turned in a neat three-hit job to

HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS LAND

Jack Burke, lightweight fighter, who gave Rollin Horne a shellacking here and polished off Elbie Bowie in Ellwood City is a good-looking prospect. He is being tutored by Jack Perry who fought Jack Zivic, Ray Pryel, Willie Gradwell and other good boys a couple decades ago. A chap almost everyone knows made his debut as a judge of the fist in Ellwood City, he is Art Kiefer. It was his baptismal as an arbiter. When journeyed to Ellwood City he little dreamed the matchmaker, Johnny Lucciano would ask him to serve. However, Art accepted and now can be marked down by the Jefferson A. C. as "available for service."

The writer would like to see Billy Reale fight Nemo Smith. Tod Cole did not appear at Ellwood City and when Nemo offered to tackle Reale the latter said he was not in condition to tackle such a rugged opponent. Billy should always keep in condition and he would find many more bouts aimed in his direction. . . . Hillsville, Bessemer, Ellwood City, New Galilee, Wampum and possibly Brent will make up the Lawrence County Baseball league this season. The Medusa will represent Wampum. . . . Johnny Banko, former lightweight of West Pittsburg who was taught how to hit like a middleweight by Bob Latera, was a visitor to the Ellwood City fight. . . . Sam Leyschok will referee. Tommy Jones and Phil Greer will judge and Billy Fazzone and Young Buffalo will hold the watches at the fights here Monday night.

Sportsmen's Fete Wednesday Night

Annual Event Is Scheduled In The Cathedral; Ticket Sale Ends Monday

Sportsmen from many sections of western Pennsylvania will join with local sportsmen Wednesday night, April 30, when the annual banquet of the Lawrence County Sportsmen's Association will be held in the dining room of The Cathedral. Tickets are going rapidly. President Andrew Dodds said today, and in order to avoid any last minute upsetting of plans, the ticket sale will be shut off at Monday noon, April 28. A turkey dinner is scheduled and Mr. Dodds insists it will be the best meal the sportsmen ever sat down to at an annual gathering.

District Attorney John G. Lamoree will be toastmaster with the following speakers listed: Fish Commissioner Charles E. French, who will speak on "Things of Interest to Anglers." Ross L. Loeffler, president of the Pennsylvania Game Commission, whose subject will be "Game Propagation." Judge W. Walter Brahm who will fire some "Random Shots of a Small Game Hunter," and Assemblyman G. Breth of Clearfield.

An interesting motion picture will follow the speakers.

Louis' End Over $60,000 In 1940

What did Joe Louis earn for himself for his six title defenses in 1940? Exactly $68,989 is the answer. But he grossed more than that, you probably are wondering. Yes he did, $153,309 to be exact. Here's how the green stuff was separated:

Of the total, a 10 percent premium is slashed for expenses, thus leaving a balance of $138,579. There about. The "left over" must be divided between Louis and his co-managers.

Expect Action In Irwin-Horne Bout

Irwin, Reputedly Better Than Garrett, Dares Horne's Fists

OTHER POPULAR BOXERS TO "GO"

What may prove to be one of the most spectacular fistic events in sometime will be the Sonny Horne, Niles vs. Billy Irwin, McKeesport, three-round amateur battle in The Arena, next Monday night.

Horne is traveling upward like a meteor descends, having captured the welterweight championship in the Cleveland Plain Dealer and Chicago tourneys and in fighting for the national A. A. U. title lost out in the finals.

Irwin is reputedly a better fighter than Billy Garrett of McKeesport whom it first was proposed to secure as Horne's opponent. Later Irwin was booked and the fight is now set and fans will see the outcome in The Arena.

There will be some other choice bouts, for instance Roy Crews, a husky Ellwood City fighter will take on Pete Misto of Youngstown, at 147, and Frank Cordy of Niles will oppose Tony Karkido of Youngstown, at 126.

Rollin Horne, brother of Sonny will fight good Leo Seahorne of McKeesport at 135. Seahorne will be recalled as a member of the McKeesport high school football team. Russell Baxter, local knockout artist who has been winning consistently will oppose Mike Kurskovich of Youngstown. Baxter had no difficulty knocking out Jimmie Ebby at Ellwood City, Tuesday night.

Charlie Arnett, West Pittsburg vs. Nick Delmark, Youngstown, at 150, Bunny Misto, Youngstown vs. Mello Donelli, Youngstown Golden Glove champion lightweight and Tony Arnett, Ellwood City vs. Benito Cantone, McKeesport, 120, round out the card.

The Jefferson A. C. is staging the show as a benefit for the General Fire department. The bouts are under the supervision of the State Athletic commission and Amateur Athletic union.

Reservations may be made now. Many of the members of the General Fire department have the pasteboards and indications point to a crowded house in the air-cooled Arena, Monday night.

Church Golfers To Dine Tonight

Upwards of 75 or 80 members of the New Castle church golf league will gather tonight at a downtown tea room at 6:30 o'clock for their spring get-together and banquet. Mont L. Magill, president of the league, will preside over the meeting that follows the dinner.

There will not be any special speaker this evening, but rather the hours following the serving of the meal will be spent in informal discussion by the various captains and committee heads.

The league will start play at Castle Hills golf course on the night of Thursday, May 1.

BIG BOYS EASY, BILLY CONN SAYS

CHICAGO—During his recent visit to the Windy City, Billy Conn, contender for Joe Louis, crown, said that middleweights have given him his toughest fights.

Fellows like Al McCoy and Gus Dorazio, not to mention Gunner Barlund, were easy for the Pittsburgh pride. Fred Apostoli and Oscar Rankin were tough nuts to crack for the handsome Conn.

GROOMS GETS $10 REWARD IN N. Y.

NEW YORK—Racing's forgotten men—the grooms—are now being remembered.

Recently, The Jockey club of New York passed a rule whereby a groom will be awarded $10 everytime a horse he attends wins.

Joe's Hitting Secret Timing

Want to hit like Joe DiMaggio of the New York Yankees?

Here's how: Keep your wrists cocked until the final stages of your swing. Keep the wrists cocked up to the last foot or so and then turn them loose at precisely the right moment and at the right spot. It's like a steel spring at work.

If you don't get results, sue us. All we know is that Joe does it that way, according to H. G. Salsinger, Detroit News crack baseball writer. The trouble with most hitters is that they uncork their wrists too soon, Salsinger adds.

For The DRIVING THRILLS other folks brag about.

Nine Teams Join City-County Loop Softball Boys To Meet Friday

Saturday Is Final Day To Enter Loop; Meeting Held Wednesday

Nine teams received City-County Independent Baseball League franchises during a meeting held in Carm's, Wednesday night.

So far, the following teams have entered the loop: South Hills, 1940 champion, Ramblers, Shamrocks, Elder A. A., West Side Civics, Round Street Stars, Pulaski, Dewey A. C. and Saint Margaret.

Saturday is the final day in which to apply for a franchise. Applications are being received at Carm's, 112 West Washington street.

Guy Bedwell, veteran trainer, is in charge of 31 horses at the Santa Anita track.

What's new in sports today?—

William "Bill" Tinstman and Robert Wilkison, New Castle athletes, are on Geneva College's cinder grinding staff. "Bill," a varsity track man in 1940, has won recognition as a distance man. The valley school is banking on Tinstman to snap the tape first in the mile and two-mile treks. Now in the veteran rank, Tinstman owns a place in the upper crust of district college track circles. . . .

Wilkison, a member of the Mahoningtown athletic fraternity, gained valuable experience since the last gravel burning campaign. Wilkison gallops in the 440 and 220 events. In preliminary drills, Wilkison has been showing grade A form. With Howard Currie, ex-Shenango Township stalwart, handling the weight department, Lawrence County has three representatives on Geneva's track corps. . . .

Freddie Shaffer made his pitching debut in the American Association Tuesday. Lady Luck greeted New Castle's son with a juicy slap in the kisser. Shaffer traveled along smoothly until the 10th frame when Dave Koslo, Milwaukee pitcher, spanked a homer which tripped Shaffer, 4-3. Louisville's bats, usually good for at least five runs, were silent. Fred clubbed out two singles and drove in a run. But his mates simply couldn't lend a helping hand

Bits form the mail box:—J. P. sends in a tip that Reeky Piliigenz a second sacker, and Jimmie Zingaro, a hurler, bear watching. The young sandlotters are trying out with the Moose baseball team. John Susko, Union High grid mentor, is blowing the trumpet for a one Gonet, an outfielder who shell-lacks a mushball mercilessly. Most of his raps travel 350 feet, the mentor reports. With that kind of power, the athlete should junk the sport for baseball, methinks. . . .

It's almost impossible to write sports these days without mentioning the DiMaggio name. Early returns show that one of the Di boys is leading in the base stealing department. Dom, of the Boston Red Sox, is holding down that division in addition to clubbing at a 448 clip. Is there anything the three brothers can't do in baseball? . . . Walter Masterson, Washington pitcher who came up with a lulu against the Red Sox Tuesday, hopped from the free baseball school straight into the majors. . . .

Eldon Aufer, St. Louis submarine pitcher, owns six victories over the Cleveland Indians since 1940, a feat that has cluded every other pecker in the American League. . . . "Lefty" Gomez recently pitched his first complete game since back in September 17, 1939. . . . Johnny Rucker, New York Giant speed ball, reaches first 46% of the times he steps to the platter, so far this season. . . .

Junior A's Are Track Champions

CITY LEAGUE SET TO START

Eight Teams In 1941 League, Opening Set Of Games Announced

The City Baseball League is ready to open the 1941 season on Sunday, May 11, with the playing of four fast games. The managers and officials held a very enthusiastic meeting at the St. Joseph Parish Hall with Rev. Fr. Schirra in charge last night.

The managers voted to adopt the Wilson 150 CC ball as the official ball of the league. The Sunday games will start at 2:30 o'clock instead of 3 o'clock, it was voted upon.

The following names were submitted for commissioners in the league, (five to be named), William Semler, Kenneth Lutz, Lou Gillich, Jack Jones, Ford Fulkerson, Charley Bishop, Bill Fleming, George "Boss" Zidow, and Charles "Bugs" Walther. The managers will vote on the commissioners at the next meeting on Friday night, May 9.

The umpires were represented by Leo W. Hill last night. Mr. Hill being president of the Lawrence County Umpires Association and the managers voted to increase the amount given to the umpires by 50 cents, making it $2.00 for twilight ball per man, and $2.50 for Sunday ball per man. Last year the umpires got $1.50 and $2.00.

Eddie Connery was present at the meeting last night and offered the league personally a handsome trophy for the champions at the end of the league season.

The 1941 schedule was taken up for discussion and adopted by the managers. The opening day Sunday, May 11, the teams will open up the season as follows:

Moose at Ryantown.

Croton at Lawrence Indies.

West Pittsburgh at West Side.

Slovaks at Elder A. C.

Fishing Contest Prizes Numerous

More Than 20 Valuable Awards For Winners; Contest On Saturday

More than 20 prizes will be awarded to winners of the fishing contest for New Castle boys, Saturday.

Emmett Gillaspie, general chairman of the event and originator of the contest, stated that the prize list has been extended, thus adding more spice to the occasion.

The list of prizes includes two wrist watches, three rods, one fly-casting and one steel-casting rod, one telescope rod, two reels, two lines, one pocket watch, an ever-sharp pencil, pocket book, tie clasp and several other articles.

In addition, Gillaspie stated, the boy killing the most water snakes will be rewarded with a valuable prize. This is another addition to the contest.

Saturday's contest starts at 7 o'clock in the morning at the city parking lot, South Mercer street. From this point, the transportation committee will haul the contestants to various streams. Between 1 and 2 o'clock, the boys will "lay-off". From 2 until 5 o'clock, the army of young Izak Waltons will resume their battle for the long list of prizes.

Boys who failed to turn in entry blanks and desire to compete, need only make arrangements for transportation and report to the aforementioned parking lot. Contestants must report back to the starting point at the close of the contest.

County sportsmen desiring to transport the boys to various streams are asked to report to the parking lot shortly before 7 o'clock, Saturday morning, Gillaspie said.

So far, the entry list has reached the 54 mark. By contest time, well over 65 boys are expected to try their luck.

Frank Wykoff, former famous sprinter, is a school superintendent in Carpinteria, Cal.

Reiser "Beaned" By Ike Pearson

(International News Service)
NEW YORK, April 24.—Pete Reiser, Brooklyn Dodgers' star outfielder, who was knocked unconscious when struck in the head by a ball in yesterday's game with the Phillies, will be kept in Caledonia hospital for several days under observation, Dr. D. A. McAteer, Jr., said today.

"Reiser has a mild concussion and localized blood clot," Dr. McAteer declared. "He's a very lucky boy, because he certainly would have had a fractured skull but for his helmet, which absorbed part of the shock. He'll remain under observation for two or three more days, but if no complications develop, he ought to be playing again in a week at the most."

The 22-year-old player, who has compiled a .355 batting average in the first eight games, was hit in the third inning by a speedy side-arm pitch from Ike Pearson. The ball struck on the right cheekbone, just under the temple. A metal helmet, worn under the cap of all Dodger players, deflected the blow.

tame Max Butler and the Pirates, 3 to 1, and if he is a fair sample of the youngsters the Cardinals are carrying, the Reds and Dodgers will have plenty to worry about before October.

Giants Trim Bees.

The Giants, behind Bowman and Lohman, managed to stagger through against the Bees, 5-4, but they didn't look very impressive in winning and it is generally agreed they won't hold the lead very long.

Over in the other circuit, the Indians climbed to a tie with the Red Sox by trimming the Browns, 5-2, behind Bob Feller while the Yanks were knocking off the Boston entry in eleven innings, 4 to 2.

Athletics Win One.

The Athletics must have added a few years to Old Connie Mack's life when they staged a nine-run rally against Chase and Zuber of the Senators to pull out one of the fire, 11 to 7. During the big uprising Sam Chapman hit a homer and Frank Hayes poled one with the bases loaded and then for good measure Frank added another two innings later.

The Tigers tore into Jack Hallett for an easy 13-5 decision over the White Sox but the defeat probably didn't worry Manager Jimmy Dykes half as much as the bad news that he is going to lose Johnny Rigney to the army early next month.

FOUR EX-YANKEES ARE COAST PILOTS

LOS ANGELES—Four former associates of the powerful New York Yankee dynasty are managing Pacific Coast League clubs.

Oscar Vitt, ex-Cleveland Indian chief, is head of the Portland club; Bill Skiff is guiding Seattle; "Lefty" O'Doul is doing an excellent job at San Francisco, and Cedric Durst is holding down the San Diego head post.

Observers are wondering whether Manager Frankie Frisch can keep up the pace he has set for himself and his players. After the Pirates dropped a close one recently, Frisch went into a song and dance, causing one heckler to caution: "take it easy, Frank, your motor's overheated."

Tennis Club To Organize Friday

An organization meeting of the Mahoningtown Tennis Club, has been called for 7:30 o'clock, Friday evening, in the Mahoningtown Presbyterian church.

The meeting was called by Robert Wilkison, president, and all old members of the organization will be welcomed.

Plans will be made at this meeting to put the Maple street court in shape for the coming season.

Umpires Will Meet Saturday

The Lawrence County Umpires Association will have a clinic business meeting at the "Y" on Saturday night at 7:30 o'clock, it was announced today by Leo W. Hill, head of the association.

The arbiters will go over the 1941 rules and brush up on the old rules from last year. All men who are interested in umpiring games this year are invited to the meeting.

ROY COCHRAN

STAR HURDLER

Indiana University's Roy Cochran looms as a star entry in the Penn Relays which will be staged Friday and Saturday.

In the 440 this spring, Roy set a world indoor record of 48.2 seconds and copped the Chicago Relays 600 yard event. Cochran is also Indiana state broad jump champion.

Question Boys In Chum's Death

Coroner T. F. Nugent Finds Death Of Clarence Gardner Was Accidental

After questioning the companions of Clarence Earl Gardner, aged 16 years, of 428 Gairbreath avenue, who died enroute to the New Castle hospital, late Tuesday afternoon, after having been struck in the neck with a golf club, Coroner T. F. Nugent late Wednesday afternoon pronounced Gardner's death as purely accidental.

It was at first reported to Coroner Nugent that the club was swung by Frank Alturi, but later it was found that William Chamblin was the boy who was swinging the club. The boys were engaged in practicing driving in Gaston Park, having gathered for a practice session and were driving some balls, when Gardner is said to have stumbled in front of Chamblin as he was swinging at the ball, according to the coroner.

SHORT SPORTS

Minnesota and Michigan saw an upstart, Illinois, ascend to the hockey title this year. Not only that, but the Illinois player, picking a team of all-opponents, named three Southern California stars and one from Santa Clara, leaving only two posts for the Big Ten, both Minnesotans.

Chance Sun's dam, Sunabi, is a full sister to Sun Mission, who won 22 races, including the Melrose Stakes and the Bayview, Commando, Bedford, Mariano, Fear-naught, Bronxville (twice), White-stone, California, and Arizona Handicaps.

Giant fans point with pride that in the age-old feud with Brooklyn this year they won't be banking their hopes on any boys named Harold, like Harold Peevey Reese and Harold Pete Reiser.

FROM ME TO YOU

By MESEEAII

Sixty years ago this month the Girl Reserves Club was first started . . . members of this organization are the younger members of the Y. W. C. A. . . this week is their anniversary week . . . all of the United States and Hawaii are celebrating. A birthday party will be held in the local Y. W. Saturday afternoon from 2 to 5 . . . pennies will be gathered and these will be used for war relief and refugees. Parties similar to the local party will be held from coast to coast. Each member of the Girl Reserves is urged to be present.

And then we find that old friend of some . . . Aristotle . . . and he defined the comic thusly: "Some defect or ugliness which is not painful or destructive." And now and then we read about odd epigrams on tombstones . . . here is one from Alabama and reads as follows:

"Here lies the body of Solomon Peas, Under daisies, and under the trees; Peas is not here only the pod, Peas shelled out went home to God."

It's odd how some wars start . . . going back over history one sometimes wonders just why this and that happened . . . Once in the olden times many thousand Swiss soldiers were killed over the sex of a bear on a coat of arms. St. Gall asserted that the figure was a male bear, and Appenzel contradicted him by maintaining it was a female . . . What fools we mortals be.

If one had the time to go over city ordinances they would probably find some rather amusing laws . . . In Omaha, Nebraska, the city clerk must be notified five days before the occurrence of an injury, caused by defective public ways or sidewalks, or the claimant cannot recover damages from the city . . . Bet we have some equally odd ordinances right here in New Castle.

How far is up? According to some it's this . . . others it's that, but according to science "UP" is a height above sea-level. Odd people, are we not.

Don't forget the Classified Ads . . . They really work.

Red Cross Has High Place In Defense Plans

General George C. Marshall Outlines Task Confronting Red Cross Chapters

URGES CITIZENS TO CO-OPERATE

General George C. Marshall, America's No. 1 soldier, chief of staff United States Army, commenting on the American Red Cross, said:

"As Chief of Staff of the Army of the United States I would say this morning to every family throughout our great democracy, that in this program of training for defense in which we are all engaged, the home front is of equal importance with the military front."

To put it another way, the morale of the family at home has a great deal to do with the morale of the soldier in camp. Deep down inside him every enlisted man feels this. From the general on down, every officer in command of troops knows it, every chaplain, every morale officer is keenly aware of it.

"Congress recognized this truth when it established the American Red Cross as a medium of communication between the American people and the soldiers and sailors of the Army and Navy. The War Department attested the value of the Red Cross as a link between the soldier and his home when it specified in Army regulations the services that organization undertakes to render."

"I would say to each of the millions of members of the Red Cross: Congress has placed upon you a great responsibility. You are to render direct help in maintaining the morale of our Army. To every Red Cross field director assigned to a military post or hospital I would say: You are the medium through which officers in command of troops and the soldiers themselves receive the assistance that Red Cross chapters back home are obligated to render when soldiers and their families are confronted by emergencies. Yours is a great responsibility."

"And finally, to the thousands of workers in Red Cross chapters throughout the country, in Alaska, in Hawaii, and the Philippines, in the Canal Zone and our other insular possessions, Yours is the heaviest responsibility of all, and yours also the opportunity for deepest satisfaction. When you receive a message asking you to report about illness in a soldier's family, that worried soldier is anxiously awaiting your reply. His commanding officer is waiting, too, and relying upon you. When you make fatiguing visits to obtain data for a medical officer, you are helping him in his efforts to restore to health and active duty a young man who wants very much to get well. When you locate for a soldier his family with whom he has lost contact, when you help solve problems of dependency when alone or in cooperation with other agencies you help tide a soldier's family over a financial emergency, or help to straighten out any other of the great variety of tangles that human beings seem unable to avoid, you are helping to maintain morale on the home front—and with the army in the field you are helping us in training for defense."

The Early Church Meeting Human Needs

Highlights On The Sunday School Lesson

The Golden Text

The apostles preaching in Jerusalem

"And the multitude of them that believed were of one heart and soul."—Act 4:32.

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL

(The International Uniform Lesson on the above topic for April 27 is Acts 4:32-7-60, the Golden Text being Acts 4:32, "And the multitude of them that believed were of one heart and soul.")

The spirit of the early church was a fine and lovely thing. All the members loved one another, and shared what they had with one another. No one spoke of his own possessions, but "they had all things in common." None of the followers were in need for those that owned property sold it and gave to the more needy brothers according to their needs.

As is usual with imperfect man, however, there were those among them who cheated and lied. Such were Ananias and his wife, Sapphira. They, too, sold their possessions, but instead of laying the proceeds at the feet of the apostles as the others had done, they kept back some of it. When Ananias was questioned by Peter as to whether he had given all, he said he had, but Peter knew he lied, and said, "Ananias, why hath Satan filled thine heart to lie to the Holy Ghost and to keep back part of the price of the land?"

A great fear fell on Ananias when he heard this question, and he fell down at the apostles' feet and died, and was carried out by four young men and buried. Three hours later Sapphira, not knowing what had happened to her husband came in and Peter asked her about the money, if that was all they received. She, too, said it was, and Peter accused her of conspiring with her husband to cheat them. At that she fell down at his feet and died, as her husband had, and the same young men carried her out and buried her beside her husband.

Many Are Healed
Multitudes of men and women joined the band of believers on the Lord Jesus Christ, and they brought their sick, those afflicted in body and mind, to be healed by the apostles. If they could not reach the apostles, they tried to lay those afflicted so that Peter's shadow would fall upon them, thinking that even his shadow would heal them. "Then the high priest rose up, and all they that were with him (which is the sect of the Sadducees), and were filled with indignation, and laid hands on the apostles, and put them in the common prison. But the angel of the Lord by night opened the prison doors and brought them forth."

You can imagine the consternation of the high priests when their guards announced that although the prison was still locked, the apostles had gone, and were moreover, at that moment teaching in the temple.

Sending the captain and officers to the temple they took the apostles, but without violence, for they were afraid of what the common people might do, and brought them to court and asked them why they were preaching in defiance of their orders. The answer was: "We ought to obey God rather than man."

They further expounded their message, and when they had finished speaking, the high priests took counsel how to slay them. However, a man named Gamaliel stood up and addressed them. He was a learned doctor of the law. He sent the apostles aside and warned the high priests against any violence. He reminded them that other men had risen and taught various doctrines and gathered disciples, but all had been slain or otherwise dispersed, and he ended his address by saying, "Refrain from these men, and let them alone, for if this counsel or this work be of men, it will come to naught, but if it be of God, ye cannot overthrow it; lest haply ye be found even to fight against God."

They agreed to its views, beating the disciples and letting them go. And the apostles went home rejoicing that they were considered worthy to suffer shame for His name.

Now the Grecian Jews complained about this time that their widows were not receiving their rightful share of the charity, so the apostles appointed seven men to right this injustice. Among them was Stephen, who was full of faith and power.

His wisdom and the spirit in which Stephen spoke was irresistible, so the high priests bribed men to say that he blasphemed, and brought him to council. False witnesses testified against him, but all those who sat in the council chamber saw his face "as it had been the face of an angel."

The chief priest asked Stephen if the things that were testified against him were so, and he gave the most remarkable sermon and one of the longest recorded in the book of Acts. He reminded them of the history of the Jews; how they had always rebelled against God and even set up idols to worship, and killed those whom God had sent to them. When he had finished the officials of the church "were cut to the heart, and they gnashed on him with their teeth."

With one accord they rushed upon him and stoned him to death, the first martyr. Stephen looked up steadfastly into heaven and "saw the glory of God and Jesus standing on the right hand of God."

"He kneeled down, and cried with a loud voice, Lord, lay not this sin to their charge. And when he had said this, he fell asleep."
